Merilyn Steele releases second radio single If I Were A Bird

If I Were A Bird the quirky title of Merilyn Steele's second radio release from her latest album Extraordinary Daze, is out now on Nfs radio compilation this month.

Described by Capital News writer Deb Minter as 'A wonderfully positive new album ... .. great songwriting and Merilyn's vocals are strong and vibrant as ever.'

Merilyn wrote the track sometime ago and reviewed it after considering it for inclusion on this, her second album 'It's a song of pure escapism and imagery, like going back to your school days.'

The Sydney based artist signed a national and US|Canada deal with WJO Distribution last month, boosting her career with the distribution through music retail stores and online direct to consumers.

'I signed a national and US/Canada deal with them in August. They specialise in independent artists and are associated with Leading Edge Music so it's a really good move.' Marilyn added.

The second single taken from Marilyn Steele's new album 'Extraordinary Daze' has been described in a review as 'light and hopeful with an Irish air and a childlike delicacy of spirit'. Indeed, the Irish folk overtones certainly stand out in this tune. It has been voted as one of the most popular songs off the CD which was a real surprise to Marilyn.

'It's a song of pure escapism and imagery, like going back to your school days when the teacher used to ask 'if you could be any animal, what would it be and what would you do as that animal?' type of thing. It's a song from years ago that I have rewritten but thought it would be viewed as pretty corny. Strangely it has turned out to be everyone's favourite.'

It's sure to become your radio favourite too once you hear this hauntingly catchy tune!
